Generations apart - one in spirit

Students and staff again provided special meaning to the giving season, coming together November 17 to host the Annual Senior Citizens Thanksgiving Luncheon.

The guests of honor, arriving from the Eastern Broome Senior Center, were treated to a full-scale Thanksgiving feast served by student members of the National Honor Society and/or Student Council. Faculty and staff also lent a hand, which included some generous donations to the Colesville food pantry.

"This is an excellent example of community spirit as well as a sense of giving and service," said Superintendent Michael Rullo. "And what better time of the year than the holiday season to have an event such as this?"

Superintendent's message

Dear residents,

It's hard to believe that we've already completed the first quarter of the school year and that the conclusion of the calendar year is just around the corner. This fall has been marked with a great deal of learning and growth for our students in the classroom and some wonderful successes in athletics, too. It's been a great start to the school year.

There are so many fantastic things that happen within our schools that we should be extremely proud of. In fact, a perfect example is the annual Thanksgiving Luncheon that took place on November 17. During this luncheon, many of our senior citizens rode our school buses down from the Eastern Broome Senior Center to the elementary school where one of the gymnasiums was transformed into a dining room. Our National Honor Society and Student Council students served the meal, cleaned up dishes, and greeted our guests during the luncheon. At the same time, faculty, staff and senior citizens provided donations of food items or money to be given to the local food pantry. This is an excellent example of community spirit as well as a sense of giving and service, and what better time of the year than the holiday season to have an event such as this.

There are a couple of other events that I'd like to take a moment to highlight as well. First, the PTO is planning to provide another amazing Santa's Workshop for the elementary students. The students are always so excited to do some holiday shopping, frost some sugar cookies and listen to holiday stories. The PTO and student volunteers 15, at 7 p.m. Come down to the school to hear some great music and get in the holiday spirit!

This is such a great school district to be a part of. It's the perfect time of year to thank our residents for the continuous support that is shown to our school district. The positivity and support that so many people extend to our schools and our programs helps students and staff feel good about our work and motivates everyone to be our best and to keep working hard.

I would like to wish each and every resident a wonderful holiday season with family and friends. I hope that it's a season marked by many, many blessings.

Yours in education,

Michael J. Rullo

Also, our band and chorus students always do such an amazing job with their holiday concerts. I hope you have the opportunity to come down to the school to listen to our musicians. Our grades 5-12 chorus concert is scheduled for Thursday, December 8, at 7 p.m., and the grades 5-12 band concert is scheduled for Thursday, December

Tips for parents/guardians from the school health office

A child who is sick will not be able to perform well in school and is likely to spread illness to other children and staff. We suggest making a plan for child care ahead of time so you will not be caught without a comforting place for your child to stay when they are ill.

Many parents ask, "When is my child sick enough to stay home from school?" This is not always an easy question to answer and we hope these tips will help.

Our school policy states that you should not send your child to school if they have:

- Fever in the last 24 hours
- Vomiting in the last 24 hours
- Diarrhea in the last 24 hours
- Chills
- Sore throat
- Strep throat (must be on an antibiotic for a full 24 hours before returning to school)

- Bad cold, with a very runny nose or bad cough, especially if it has kept the child awake at night
- Head lice – until your child has been treated – bring child in to the health office to be checked when returning to school
- Conjunctivitis (pink eye)-child must be on medication for a full 24 hours before returning to the school setting

If your child has been injured or recently been ill and needs to be excused from gym, a doctor's note is required. Note that if your child is excused from gym, he/she is also excused from recess and sports, and will require another note from the doctor in order to be cleared to participate once ready to do so.

If your child becomes ill at school and their teacher or the school nurse feels they are too sick to benefit from school or are contagious to others, you will be called to come and take them home. It is essential that we have a phone number(s) where you can be contacted during the day and an emergency number in case you cannot be reached. Please be sure that arrangements can be made to transport your child and that child care is available in case of illness. If your daytime or emergency phone numbers change during the school year, please be sure to notify the school immediately.

The art of team building

By Sabrina Bixby, special education aide

Art with a Twist students have been very creative with their team building skills.

The third-grade students started the school year with a team-building puzzle and marble painting. They chose pumpkins and made sketches of what they wanted their pumpkins to become. They then followed their sketches or modified them on their pumpkins. They really were excited about this project and about taking their pumpkin creations home. The students also separated into groups and created teamwork posters. Later, they presented their group posters, explaining what teamwork means to them.

Art with a Twist projects help student develop team-building skills, confidence, reasoning, strategies and creativity.

Book club encourages third-graders to strive to become better readers

The third-graders spent the first part of their after-school program talking about their reading lives.

They made reading time lines as a part of thinking about reading, sharing what they love most about reading and the areas where they struggle.

They also spent time reading at their independent levels to build reading stamina. They enjoyed reaching to set new goals for how long they read independently.

Art news updates

Payton Villeco and Taylor Rutherford were joined by Tori Whidden to finish the Hornet mural at Lowe's on Front Street. Art teacher Ann McDonald and the three 8th grade NJAHS members volunteered another Saturday to complete the job. Next time you are at Lowe's, check out the bathroom hallway. Go Hornets!

After many hours of sometimes frustrating work, the marble roller coasters are finally completed. Precision and perseverance prevailed. Accurate placement of the ramps and timing of the marbles were necessary to make the runs successful. All in all, a fun learning experience was had by everyone.

Guest readers offer insights

Students in Janine Petrick's first grade class recently welcomed guest reader Kevin Bryant to their classroom.

Bryant shared what a reader looks and sounds like.

Meanwhile, Christine Gresham's class read stories that they had written about what writers do.

These guest readers all inspired kindergarteners with their daily reading and writing workshops.

Veterans remembered on special day

Students in John Giblin and Melissa Fye's middle school social studies class recently took a moment to thank all the veterans for their service to our country. (See adjoining photograph)

Cross country standout heading to Australia

Congratulations to Matthew Johnson who took 1st place in the MAC championships at Unadilla Valley on October 28, which qualified him to run in the state championships November 3, where he placed 5th. He has had some challenges this season, but he worked hard and earned a return visit to the states.

Johnson was also recently named a state 1st Team All-Star and was invited to represent the U.S. cross country team competing in Australia in June 2017.

This is an amazing achievement, and he is excited to be given the opportunity to represent not only our state, but our community as well.

Swimming program is a big splash with young students -Amanda Fabrizi, special education teacher

The first-graders have been making a “splash” with swimming this session. They’ve been practicing their freestyle, jumping into the water, playing games, and swimming into the “blue lagoon.” Everyone is having a great time learning and being active.
